

S. L. POWERS & CO., Originators and Promoters of Low Prices for all the People.

SUCCESSORS TO BRIGHT & CURRAN.

W. P. WALTON.

It is to be hoped that some legislator will distinguish himself at Frankfort this winter by procuring the passage of a law that shall more adequately punish the crime of attempted rape. As the law stands the penalty is only from two to seven years in the penitentiary, which to the brutes who commit this class of crime is neither a sufficient punishment, nor does it act as a deterrent from its commission. Take for instance the case of the negro, Lewis Anderson, just disposed of in our Circuit Court. In the absence of the husband of a respectable and worthy lady, he sought to gratify his beastly desires upon her, and but for her unusual strength and the assistance of a faithful dog would have accomplished that most heinous of horrible crimes. Nor did he desist until he had shot the dog and attempted to frighten her into submission with a pistol by threats of a like fate and which, failing to do so, he used to beat her over the head. Is it strange then that men who wish to see their own wives protected from such brutes, in view of the inadequacy of the punishment imposed by the law for such crimes, should rise and inflict a more summary and condign punishment upon the perpetrator of such a deed? As it stands the penalty is simply a menace and an invitation to mob violence, and so long as it stands upon the statute books will men seek to do themselves what the law fails to do in doing. Incarceration with the ever present possibility of escape from it is no punishment to brutes who commit such crimes. There must be something that will reach their own foul bodies and if death be considered too great a penalty for the crime well proven, we suggest that castration be made the punishment. This would scarcely be less horrible than death itself, for the victim would at once become a reproach among men and despised by himself. With the law so enacted that castration shall follow every proven case of attempted rape and death when the attempt is successful, we shall hear less of the commission of these crimes and fewer occasions for that ever to be deplored action, a resort to mob violence. We hope the legislature will therefore see that such a law or a better one shall be placed upon the statute books during the coming term.

The Coat of Arms of Virginia represents a prostrate man with another standing over him with his foot upon his throat, underneath which appear the words "Sic Semper Tyrannis." The under dog in the fight may now be called Mahone, who has ruled the State with a tyrant's will, the other represents the true democracy crushing his life out and giving him no time to repeat the Irishman's translation of the Latin: "Take your foot off my neck." We hope the little traitor will be as thoroughly ostracized socially as he has been politically, so that he will leave his country for his country's good, no more to return. The legislature that will select his successor in the Senate will have a democratic majority of 60 on joint ballot.

The democratic majority in New York is 12,027, more than 1,000 in excess of our first report. But even this gratifying majority appears insignificant when compared with Hill's majority for lieutenant governor when he ran with Cleveland in 1882. Then it was 106,781 or about 4,000 more than Cleveland's. But the result then is not to be compared with that of last week. The fight this time was a regular stand up one between the two parties. Three years ago the republican candidate, Folger, was nominated by such fraudulent means that the honest men of his party were forced to rebuke it.

MAHONE on being solicited by his republican friends to stand for Congress next year in his district, positively declined saying that he will not return to public life with clipped wings at the end of his senatorial term, preferring to follow private pursuits and enjoying his Virginia home. He ought to go into his hole and draw it in after him. The people of Virginia will not enjoy his enjoyment of a home in their midst except to observe how greatly his fine plumage has been clipped.

The suit against Young E. Allison, Geo. W. Smith and the Louisville Press Company for criminal libel on Mayor Booker Reed has been dismissed, the company filing a disclaimer that in making the publication they did not intend to impugn his honesty or to charge fraud and corruption against him. Messrs. Allison and Smith distinctly avow in the Truth that they disclaimed nothing, but on the contrary reiterate all and more than they ever said.

THAT rate desert the sinking ship is plainly shown by the election returns of Iowa, which heretofore could always be depended on by the republicans for 60,000 to 100,000 majority this year only gave its candidate for governor a pitiful 7,004 majority. The year of jubilee, if not already here, is approaching with the rapidity of a cyclone.

HAVING no confidence in his election and with an eye open to the main and surest chance, Ira Davenport, defeated candidate for governor of New York, tries to his seat in Congress and will winter in Washington instead of Albany.

THE Louisville Times speaks of our excellent Congressman as "Tom" McCreary. Emmett Logan has evidently not returned from that big hunt in Warren county.

—Louisville's oldest man, Asa Emerson, aged 102, is dead.

CONGRESS meets four weeks from yesterday. The House is composed of 325 members and the democrats have a majority over everything of 42. Carlisle has practically no opposition for Speaker and there is no doubt of his succeeding himself, all of which is exactly as it should be. It is also given out that Sam Randall will join the revenue reformers at least to a limited extent.

AS EVIDENCE that a Blackburn craves as much for office as a thirsty man does for water—or whisky, we will state that Capt. James Blackburn, late Secretary of State, and an applicant for the Collectorship, has given up hope for federal preferment, and now offers for county judge of Woodford. What a fall indeed is this, my countrymen!

JOSH BILLINGS accumulated $93,000 by writing little paragraphs in wretched orthography, which proves that it was not such a bad spell after all.

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

—The number of emigrants that arrived at New York during the last year is 336,906.

—Wanda, in her two years upon the turf, has won twelve races and $65,510 in stakes.

—The Grant monument fund has reached $94,000. The million desired will never be forthcoming.

—The war department cost the country last year $13,483,727. The army pay rolls took $12,349,443.

—Ten inches of snow fell in Dakota Thursday and in many parts of Ohio the ground was covered.

—J. L. McIntyre, County Attorney for Oldham county, is a defaulter to the amount of $2,500 and has fled to the West.

—The contest for Mahone's seat in the U. S. Senate between Barbour and Daniel may result in the election of a dark horse.

—The Bluegrass Chipper, published at Midway, will be sold by the Master Commissioner of Woodford county, November 21.

—A man named Geo. Burns, living near Knoxville, who had whipped his wife, was taken by a mob and given a fearful lashing.

—Miles Greenwood, a pioneer citizen of Cincinnati, and president for years of the Cincinnati Southern Board of Trustees, is dead.

—Mrs. Walkup, who was on trial at Emporia, Kansas, for poisoning her husband, was acquitted after the jury had been out 56 hours.

—James A. Bayard, who is appointed Secretary of the Territory of Arizona, is a son of Secretary Bayard and is about 23 years of age.

—The National Exchange Bank, Lexington, has been swindled out of $800 by a young man giving his name as Charles Marshall, alias Manning.

—John McCollough, the great tragedian, died at Philadelphia Sunday, the result of reckless lying and self indulgence, which reduced him to an imbecile.

—First Controller Durham's first annual report shows that during the last fiscal year, 68,009 warrants on the Treasury were issued, aggregating $1,004,975,411.

—The contract for the statue of Garfield, to be erected in Washington, has been let to J. Q. A. Ward, for $29,000. The work is to be completed before July 1, 1890.

—A Buffalo, N. Y. man cut his wife's throat with a razor while she slept and then occupied the bed with the corpse for three nights and until it was discovered by its smell.

—The accounts that passed through Controller Durham's office for the last fiscal year aggregated $323,752,144,189. The number of vouchers examined foot up $3,546,443.

—Editor Smeal and the woman, who abducted a young girl in London to show how it was done end to prove his charges regarding the wholesale traffic of virtue, has been found guilty.

—Alfred Little, the notorious Breathitt county outlaw, was found guilty at Louisville in the U. S. Court on 29 counts for violation of the pension laws and still there is more to follow.

—The sum total of the proceedings of the Wayne court of claims is as follows: Taxes increased 10c per $100 and 50c added to poll tax. Claims were allowed to the amount of about $6,000.—[Signal.]

—The Mountain Girl, which was carrying Holland & McMahon's circus, collided with the J. W. Gaff near Anrora, Ind. Seven showmen were drowned, all the horses and many other animals.

—By a deposit at Washington of $50,000 in government bonds, the Madison National Bank in this place has become a U. S. Depository for the reception of monies arising from Internal Revenue collections.—[Register.]

—James A. Dawson, formerly Adjutant General of Kentucky, and widely known throughout the State, was appointed by the President Surveyor General of Colorado, of which State he has been a resident for several years.

—Judge Cox, in the Circuit Court of Hamilton county, Ohio, decided the election suits practically in favor of the Republican candidates for the State Senate in Cincinnati. An appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court.

—The Blackburn Sanitarium, established by the old governor, for the cure of inebriates, has proven a failure and been purchased by the city of Louisville for a pest house for $4,000, three times its value, it is alleged, so as to help the old man out.

—Senator Sharon, of California, is dying. He has instructed his son and Gen. Barnes, his chief attorney, to carry on the fight against the conspirators (meaning Sarah Althea and co-conspirators), and never desist until they are landed in jail. He talks calmly and bravely of his approaching end, and announces himself ready for the dread event.

PERSONAL.

—Miss LILLIAN BUCHANAN is visiting in Danville.

—GEORGE S. CARPENTER is down with the malarial fever.

—WILL P. GIVENS, who had the typhoid fever, is much better.

—ELD JOHN BELL GIBSON went over to Lexington to spend Sunday.

—Mrs. TAYLOR, of Carlisle, the mother of Mrs. Will Craig, is her guest.

—Miss HATTIE POWERS has returned from a protracted visit to Ironton, O.

—Mrs. E. H. BURNSIDE and Pearl have returned from a visit to Lancaster.

—Mrs. J. C. HAYS has gone to visit relatives at Paint Lick in the absence of her husband.

—Mr. J. S. HOCKER has returned from a trip through North Carolina with Mr. J. Ottenheimer.

—Mrs. F. J. CURRAN has joined her husband here after a month's visit to relatives in Springfield, Mo.

—Mrs. J. J. McROBERTS, who has been confined with malarial fever for several weeks, is convalescing.

—Miss BELLE YOUNG and Mr. Hood Dooley, of Bloomington, Ill., are visiting the family of Mr. J. M. Wray.

—Mrs. W. M. HIGGINS, John M. McRoberts, Sr. and Mattie Flopper went up to Richmond Saturday to visit relatives.

—MR AND MRS. W. P. TATE went to Harrodsburg Friday to see their daughter, Miss Lucy, who is attending Daughters College.

—Mr. N. D. LACKEY, who has been very sick of a complication of diseases, is still low. His brother, S. E. Lackey, of Gallatin, arrived to see him Saturday.

—CASHIER R. W. HOCKER, of the Saxton National Bank of St. Joseph, Mo., arrived yesterday, looking unusually well. The West evidently agrees with him.

—Mrs. ARIN, Misses Lilla Foster and Bertie Snail and Mr. Dan Lyons, of Danville, and Will White and Ed. Higgins, of Lancaster, were among those from a distance at the opening of the Rink.

—Miss MILDRED LEWIS has returned from her visit to Miss Mamie Bryant in Virginia delighted with the Old Dominion, many of whose principal points she visited, including the Natural Bridge, Richmond and Old Point Comfort.

—Dr. J. H. BALLOU, who recently graduated at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, has decided that the West offers a more desirable field for a physician and with the view of locating in Kansas City, left Friday last. He may however spend the winter in Louisville. He is a most deserving young man and we commend him to the people, no matter where he may settle.

—HON. CHARLES OFFUTT, leading candidate for Speaker of the next House and editor Green E. Keller, of the Carlisle Mercury, who wants to be clerk of the same body, were here last week and honored our sanctum with their presence. While Mr. Keller's chances for election are not as sure as Mr. Offutt's, yet he has many pledged votes, and if a certain other man were not a candidate, we should rather see him elected than anybody.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

RESTAURANT.—The Saveridge Brothers have opened their restaurant and have everything in the neatest shape. The eating room is handsomely furnished with marble top tables and everything looks like they intend to make a success of the business. Give them a call.

A SECOND substitute is now running as mail messenger on the K. C. Mr. G. G. Wine, who took Mr. G. R. Hardin's place on account of sickness, has himself been taken sick and for the last two trips A. T. Nunnally has been handling the mails. Judging from his looks, he is nearly a 300 pounder, it will take more than an ordinary disease to throw him off.

ELD JOS BALLOU tells us that a cabbage plant, which in 1884 bore a head, sprouted this spring and raised seed and that now 55 little cabbage heads show themselves around its roots. We have only to state in connection that Mr. Ballou is a preacher to convince a sceptic of the truth of his assertion, though Brother John Bright refused to testify when we asked him to state the general character of the witness for veracity.

It is scarcely necessary for us to call attention to the huge advertisement of Hayden & Lytle, save to say that they mean business and that now is your time for bargains. That they are certainly going to close out, the following from the Barber Co., Kansas, Index will show: "The Cook store room in the new block was rented this week to Hayden & Lytle, two merchants of Stanford, Ky. They will open out an extensive stock of dry goods, clothing, boots, shoes and gent's furnishing goods on January 1st. These gentlemen were here this week and impressed every one with whom they met as being live and energetic business men. They are quoted high in financial circles."

THE most enjoyable and at the same time the most mystifying entertainments that have ever been given at the Stanford Opera House, were those of Prof. Charles A. Lewis, who is not only a capital sleight of hand performer, an unequalled juggler and a clever illusionist, but a man of a great deal of wit, by means of which he keeps his audience always in a good humor and sometimes convulsed with laughter. Many of his tricks are new and all are so cleverly executed that one can but sit and wonder at his wonderful precision. During the performance his two pretty little daughters are introduced and they contribute much to the enjoyment of the programme, the whole of which is chaste and refined. We take pleasure in heartily recommending the Prof. to the amusement loving people as a master of his business.

A STAVE SAW in good condition is offered for sale by Mr. A. C. Sine. See notice in this issue.

A LITTLE negro girl was jailed yesterday for stealing a cap from the counter of Owayley & Craig.

New Sorghum, Honey, Cranberry sauce, Pickles, Cream cheese at A. A. Warren's "Model Grocery."

MARRIAGES.

—Invitations to the marriage of Miss Pamela Cloyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Brown to E. H. Bryant, of Louisville, have been sent out. The ceremony will occur at the Baptist church, McKinney, at 1 P. M. on the 19th.

—The marriage of Miss Mollie Ford to Mr. John Herndon, in Fayette, is announced. Miss Ford is the daughter of A. J. Ford, Esq., proprietor of Ford's Hotel, Richmond, Va., but who spends most of his time on his fine Fayette county farm.

—At the conclusion of his sermon Sunday, Rev. J. M. Bruce extended in a most becoming manner a general invitation to his congregation to come to the church Wednesday at 1 o'clock and witness a ceremony in which he takes an important part.

—The sensation of the hour is the announcement of the marriage, on Thursday next, of Mr. John H. Miller and Miss Sallie Phillips. They had managed their courting so well that everybody was surprised when their plans leaked out less than a week before their consummation.

RELIGIOUS.

—The Northern Methodist will raise $1,000.00 for missions this year.

—Dr. Young's new Presbyterian church in Louisville was dedicated Sunday. It cost $32,000 and will seat 600.

—Eld. Stephen Collier will begin a protracted meeting at the Cherry Grove church, Rowland, next Sunday night.

—During the first evangelical campaign of Revs. Sam Jones and Sam Small 26,000 people have been led to accept salvation.—[Courier Journal.]

—The annual meeting of the Bible Society was held at the Baptist church Sunday night, when $12 65 was raised. There was a small crowd present. Revs. Pollitt and Bruce made suitable addresses. D. W. Vandever was re-elected President; J. J. McRoberts, Secretary, and A. R. Penny, Treasurer.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

—John Bright sold to Hiram Collier, of Garrard, a pair of Berkshire pigs for $20.

—About 10,000 bushels of seed wheat have been sold in the county at $1 20c 1 30 per bushel.—[Richmond Register.]

—The big beet has started on its annual tour and the first to reach this office is the contribution of Mr. J. Z. Spoonamore. If you beat that beet you'll have to send one weighing over 10 pounds.

—It is predicted by good, deep thinking men here, that in less than 60 days there will be the biggest boom in cattle that there has been for years. Already the indications are visible.—[Paris News.]

—Bruce & Lee have bought in the last few days 7,000 bushels of oats at 25c to 28c. Wakefield & Hudson sold and shipped this week to Martin, Thompson & Co., of New Orleans, a car load of fat mules 154 head high, at $145.—[Danville Advertiser.]

MT. VERNON DEPARTMENT.

Managed by Jas. B. Fish.

—J. I. Orrison sold three yearling mules to Adam Catron for $115.

—Messrs. A. Pullins, Willis Adams, Sr. and Jos. F. Wallace, passed through town this morning on their way to the Hills of Roundstone and Rockcastle River, where they will divide a three thousand acre tract of land.

—G. W. McClure and Casper Williams are renovating the old office in the Court house yard. They expect to take possession in a few days when they will be prepared to treat all their clients in "legal" style. It will be quite an improvement on the old order of things. F. H. Reppert will occupy the office over Paria's store.

—Mrs. M. E. Brown took charge of the Postoffice at this place last Thursday. She will be assisted by her daughter, Miss Georgia. The office is now kept in one of the rooms formerly connected with Jack Adams' store. Mrs. Brown will keep her millinery goods in the same building.

—The counties all around us are selecting their candidates for county offices and it is high time that Rockcastle was following suit; and in making those selections it must be done by some other method than primary elections. We people up here are opposed to primary elections. While we are not expressing a preference for any candidate for office in the county (but are for the best men) how would this do for the democrats of Rockcastle at the next August election. For County Judge, M. E. Mullins; County Attorney, J. W. Brown; County Clerk, M. N. Langford; Sheriff, W. T. Hatt; Assessor, J. W. Kirby; Jailor, Jas. Cruikshank; and for Circuit Clerk, D. N. Williams. We merely suggest these names of Democrats. Don't know whether any of them would consent to become candidates or not.

LIVINGSTON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—The saw mill men are very busy gathering in their logs; have had a splendid tide.

—Married, on Thursday evening, Nov. 5th, Mr. Henry Burton, a flourishing merchant of this place, to Miss Mollie Stanley, one of the charming belles of East Bernstadt. The ceremony was performed by Rev. B. E. Van Nuge, of this place. The attendants were Mr. Thos. Carter, a young conductor on the L. & N., and Miss Katie McCarthy, a handsome young lady of this place. Come, Tommie, your turn next George will be on hand Sunday.

—Mr. G. A. Carpenter, formerly agent of the L. & N. at this place, is now agent of ation with Uncle Sam. Mr. C has many friends, who regret to see him leave, but are glad to see that he will do better, as he is well worthy of the position to which he has been appointed. Mr. Frank L. Clifford, night operator at Junction City, has been appointed to this agency. Look out, boys, Mr. C. is quite a ladies' man.

THE man Baker, who murdered Ann Miller, colored, at Jellico, was captured in Louisville as he was bound for the boundless West and brought back for trial.

THE rink opened in foul weather but with a fair crowd and skating was kept up for several hours much to the enjoyment of the participants. The music of the Gold and Silver Band was highly complimented and Mr. Joe F. Walters, who played a harp solo, was so loudly encored that he had to respond to the demand. There was a number of persons from Lancaster and Danville present, who added much to the pleasure of the evening.

IN deference to the wishes of some irascible little maidens, the evening closed with a dance but there is so much objection to this mode of closing by the mothers of those who do not dance, that the manager thinks it best to say that hereafter the two pleasures will not be combined. There are other nights that the hell can be used by those who delight to glide through the dreamy mazes of the waltz. Those who come to skate pay for the privilege and have the right to enjoy it.

THE rink will be open next Friday night and each succeeding Friday night until further notice. Come everybody. The Gold & Silver Band announces the following programme for the next entertainment:

PART I.
1 "Splinters"—Grand Musical Smash-up—Rollinson
2 Fresh Life—March Webb
3 Popular Medley—Andante & Waltz—Prenderville
4 Clarinda Polka—Kellar
5 Sweetheart Polka—Solo for the Cornet by Dr. Lee F. Hoffman—Probst

PART II.
6 Medley March—Call Me Back Again—Prenderville
7 Overture—Pretty Pond Lilies—Henderson
8 Pretty Skaters' Waltz—Hansdell
9 Pomona March—Thomas
10 Old Kentucky Home—Southwell
11 "Splinters"—Grand Musical Smash-up, or the tribulations of a Band leader on the 4th of July—every member of the Band tries to have a solo and the best solo is rewarded.

A DISPATCH from Atlanta, Ga., tells of the death in the Fulton county jail of Prof. George M. Cheves, who used to teach school in this county. He was an editor at the time of his death, which was caused by mental depression, which developed into a disease, growing out of his crime. On the 25th of October, 1884 he shot and killed Capt. J. H. Pickett. Cheves had promised to support Pickett for the legislature and then failed to do so. Pickett thereupon cut Cheves' acquaintance. This as worked upon the editor's mind that he procured a shot gun, sought out Pickett and shot him dead.

CIRCUIT COURT.—The case of William Hocker, negro, for attempted rape on a little negro girl, was tried Friday, but the jury failed to agree and it was reset for trial to-day. William Vanoy was pronounced an idiot and placed upon the charge of the State. Mary Stuart, wife of Charles Stuart, cold, was adjudged a lunatic and ordered to the asylum.

The negro, Lewis Anderson, charged with attempted rape on Mrs. J. H. Hilt, was quietly brought over from Lexington Thursday night and the case fixed for immediate trial. Attorneys P. M. McRoberts and T. P. Hill, Jr., were appointed to defend him and he first decided to undergo a regular trial, but fear of violence grew so great that he sent for the gentlemen again and said he wanted to plead guilty. He was immediately taken into court, a jury impaneled and the case submitted with that plea, and he was given the fullest extent of the law, seven years in the penitentiary. Judge Owsley, with commendable precaution, then passed sentence on him and ordered that he be at once taken to the Lexington jail to await the time for taking the other prisoners to Frankfort. During the delivery of the sentence, the negro showed the most abject terror and any movement in the house caused him to start as if shot. Judge Owsley told him he should be protected, but the negro was well aware of the vengeance that might be visited upon him and he was greatly relieved when placed in a vehicle and hurried off to take the train at the Hanging Fork tank. En route his guards asked him for the truth of the charges against him, when he confessed everything and said he knew not what impelled him to do the crime as he had not premeditated it. The punishment is far too light for the heinousness of the crime, but the law is to blame for that and not the court. Judge Owsley deserves the highest commendation for his precaution in the matter and for using every means to prevent any attempt to mob the accused, he was sworn to protect while in the hands of the law.

Henry Roberts was brought out for sentence Friday and the Judge after recalling the atrocity of his crime, which, but for his youth, the jury would have punished with death or life imprisonment, admonished him that he get had enough of life to make amends and hoped that he would come from the State prison resolved to do so. He then passed the sentence of 13 years on him for the murder of Nick Bene dict. Roberts is but 17 years of age. William Carson was also sentenced after he had made a little speech in answer to the Judge's question if he had anything to say why the verdict should not be executed. He acknowledged that he had been given two fair trials, but said his act was in self defense and that therefore he ought not to be punished. The sentence was passed but suspended for 60 days to await the result of an appeal. The case of R. C. Engleman for shooting Smith Baughman was continued as it like ly will be till all the witnesses forget who was shot and who did the shooting. El Johnson, one of the four negroes charged with pursuing the Misses Marcum with criminal intent, was put upon trial Saturday but the Court adjourned before it was concluded, till yesterday. The prosecution proved the charges but the defense which was represented by Messrs. Masterson Peyton and T. P. Hill, Jr., attempted to show, and that seems to be the impression of those who heard the testimony, that the negro was mistaken in the character of the women, though there could be no excuse for persistence in the pursuit. W. H. Miller assisted Mr. Warren in the prosecution and at 11 o'clock yesterday the jury after a short retirement returned a verdict of three years in the penitentiary. All common law cases have been continued till next term as the Court will hardly get through the criminal business before its forced adjournment Saturday. Two murder cases, four attempts at rape and one grand larceny case remain to be tried and nearly all the accused are in jail. Much difficulty was found yesterday in obtaining a jury in the case of Sam Embry, who is likewise charged with detaining the Misses Marcum. But 8 could be obtained out of the regular panel and Judge Owsley ordered Sheriff Menefee to summon a sufficient number of men from the McKinney neighborhood to complete the jury. Pending the arrival of the men the negro asked to be permitted to confess and take three years, and his wishes were gratified. A worse case could have been made against him than that of Johnson. HERE IT IS.—A. & W. H. Taylor are retailing pure water brandy and whiskey at their distillery premises at $2.40 per gal. for the former and $2 for the latter. OPENED.—Billy Weatherford has at last succeeded in getting his bar room opened at Richmond, the first that has openly existed there for six years. A bond of $5,000 was required of him besides a license of $1,200. If the people of the town are to have a whiskey establishment in their midst it is well for them that it will be kept by so decent and clever a man.

THE TRUE GYPSY.

THE ROMANY OF THE BETTER KIND
A HAPPY RACE.An Assembly of Handsome Faces and Graceful Figures—Loving a Real Substantial Pleasure—A Wonderful Talent for Languages.

[Leland's St. Malo (France) Letter.]

The other day I went to the beautiful town of Dinan to see the cathedral, and ancient houses, and quaint streets, and it proved to me to be a museum ethnological as well as archeological. For it was by good luck the day of the great fair, and all the town was filled with Breton peasant women, in every variety of the curious caps peculiar to them. It was really a remarkable sight. Some of these caps are singularly pretty, and I am very sorry that I had not an opportunity to sketch one of which, of course, I never saw another example. But if there were pretty caps there were no pretty faces.

THE GYPSIES.

As soon as I had made that remark I saw one of the most beautiful girls I ever beheld in my life. There were seven or eight people in a group—two girls and the rest men—lying on the grass under the castle walls eating their dinner. Dark almost as Indians, all of them, with will, flashing eyes and an indescribably easy, lithe expression of limb, which belonged to no European race. At a glance I knew the true, pure gypsy. She was wearing a "Bos Four Tassein" ("Are you gypsy?") "Quel Monsieur," replied she politely, yet without moving. Then I said in their own tongue: "Good day, brothers; can you not talk Romany?" And then they moved I led, quickly enough, and crowded round me.

I never saw in my life in an assembly of the same number so many handsome faces, figures, or so much natural grace. They were nearly all and very clean, and compared with our American-English gypsies as deer or leopards would compare with coarse cattle. I never saw any people so entirely and thoroughly delighted as they were, the pleasure being vastly increased when they found I could talk German, for they were all natives of the Netherlands. They were wandering musicians, haunting fairs, and so made themselves nice-looking as they could. It is a strange thing that he who can talk Romany should be a stranger in no land, for the instant he meets with the wanderers (Romany is possibly connected with the Hindu Ramna, "to roam") he is regarded as a special friend. I think that our meeting on that grassy slope under the old castle walls would have made a good picture.

A HAPPY RACE.

The Romany, especially of this better kind, are really a very happy race, and what is good for them is that they know it. Once in a while one of them gets into trouble for obtaining a hen without proper preparatory negotiation with the owner, or for "acquitting" a clean shirt a la Pe-trology. Y. Nasby. Then he has to live indoors for many days, and returning to his tribe draws a fearful picture of existence in a house. Not being ashamed to beg, they never want for a dinner—no man ever does in this world who is devoid of shame and can offer the thinnest shadow of a pretense or recompense. The gypsy woman tells fortunes or sings a song; her husband trades horses, plays the fiddle, and is always on hand at a pig fair or any place where quick wit helps to a treat.

Loafing, which is to others only a form of ennui, is to him a real substantial pleasure—may, life itself in all its best; and with a pipe of tobacco he asks for nothing more. Since the prehistoric ages his ancestors loafed in many lands and laid on the grass, and begged, and stole, and were engaged or banished; but they took it all philosophically and easily. Ethnologists dispute as to their origin—but of one thing we are certain, that wherever they came from they loathed on a stupendous scale, for as Mr. Petulengro, who was one of them, remarked, "When we are not engaged in getting our victims we are mostly occupied with our divinations, so that between the two we have very little time for improving our minds." So they don't improve them, but seem to be none the less healthy, happy, and handsome.

Why such luscious-looking heathen loafers should be gifted with every physical perfection, when their betters are ugly and ailing is a puzzle which to use the words of Saint Chrysostom, "no perspicacious tempore," "knocks me out of my time." There was not a scamp in that camp whose face would not have turned the heads of an entire girls' boarding-school, or, possibly, of a convent. These German gypsies are not only handsome. They have all that wonderful, innate, spracialist, a talent for languages which is no very rare among Europeans.

Miss Jerome Bonaparte.

[Baltimore Herald.]

In her old age Miss Jerome Bonaparte, of Baltimore, the American beauty who married a brother of the great Napoleon, was regarded by him, demoted a great deal more admiration than she got. At an entertainment she considered herself neglected by the gentlemen, who paid most of their attention to a couple of newly-married ladies. She endured it for some time, and then remarked to the first one who paid a little time to spare with her: "If you know, Mr. X, that I consider it the most foolish thing in the world for a gentleman to pay attention to a young married lady?" "Indeed, madam!" responded the gallant, "and why?" "Because a young married woman is only a girl who belongs to somebody else."

It was Miss Bonaparte who observed to an old acquaintance, "If Mr. X. only had teeth she would be as ugly as Mrs. Y., and if Mrs. Y. had hair she would be prettier than Mrs. X."

The French as Colonizers.

[Blackwood's Magazine.]

The French moral fibre is not strong enough to withstand the enervating and demoralizing effect of debauch Oriental life. Instead of raising the natives to their own level they fall to the level of the natives, and by this process they lose all title to respect, as well as all the influence for good which should attach to them as belonging to a higher and a Christian civilization. With the loss of respect goes also the confidence of the natives in the justice and fair dealing of their conquerors, and the French have no other weapon than the chastest with which to encounter the dislike and unwillingness to submit thus engendered.

A KANSAS PRAIRIE.

[Mrs. Ellen P. Allerton.]

The people of this brave new world have come from every quarter; Some faced each other long ago, On red fields bathed in slaughter.

In frosty dawns of winter months The white smoke curls away From homes of men who wore the Blue And men who wore the Gray.

Here, brothers all, they hang their gifts On the same Christmas tree, Are kindly neighbors, cordial friends, As brothers ought to be.

And crowds of children, Kansas-born— The young state's hope and pride— With rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes, Learn lessons side by side.

Naught recall of the battle-field, Of sad, dark years of slaughter; The Northman's son some day shall weal The Southron's gentle daughter.

LIFE IN MARSEILLES.

The Death Rate—Joyousness and Abandon—Open-Air Sleepers.

[Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.]

The ordinary death rate of the city proves the insalubrious conditions. Even in summer called healthy it is forty or fifty a day, nearly four times that of San Francisco, or any other American city of from 250,000 to 300,000 inhabitants. Since the advent of the cholera, two months ago, it has several times reached eighty-five per day, of whom somewhat less than half were from cholera.

No change is perceptible in the daily life of the people. Business goes on as usual. The principal streets are filled with persons engaged in their ordinary vocations or bent on pleasure. The cafes and shaded promenades, which are numerous, have their multitudes of loungers, day and evening. The evenings are noisy with the shouting of sailors who have indulged too freely in rum or absinthe, or vocal with the songs of gay parties of musicians. There is in a word, all the noise, joyousness and abandon that might be expected in a brilliant provincial metropolis.

But under this gayety are abundant signs of the poverty and misery which furnish the elements of disease. The benches furnished for the accommodation of the public in the promenades and shaded streets and places must exceed 1,000, and I never passed these localities at a late hour without seeing every one occupied by one or two sleepers—often a whole family—father, mother and young children. I have also often seen homeless women with little daughters sleeping on doorsteps, vagabonds reclining contentedly in the most unexpected public places, and have never passed along the quay of the old port without being about count these homeless wanderers by scores, if not to say by hundreds.

Of those who every night stow themselves in secure nooks and corners no account can be made, but it is safe to estimate that 5,000 or 6,000 persons of both sexes and all ages in Marseilles have no roof to cover them, and are obliged to sleep in the open air every night in this season of cholera. Usually during the summer the weather is mild and no great discomfort comes from the exposure, but just now the chilly wind of the Rhone, the mistral, is prevailing, and the air after midnight is so cold that it is really quite suggestive of frost. It is a temperature to which robust and warmly dressed persons could not long expose themselves without discomfort or danger to their health.

How Salmon Canning Was Started.

[Chicago Tribune.]

The salmon canning industry in Oregon is attributed altogether to a suggestion of that queer genius, George Francis Train. Some years ago Train was to deliver a lecture in Portland, and in the afternoon before he was to speak engaged in salmon fishing. He met with great success, and was amazed at the quantity of the great fish in the river. He could talk of nothing else, and begged the lecture committee who had engaged him to allow a substitution of salmon for the subject of his address in place of the one announced. This the committee would not agree to, and Train began the speech announced in the advertisement.

He got along very well for half an hour or so, and then the attraction of the theme uppermost in his mind proved too much for him. He left his original subject and began to talk about salmon. He drew a salmon on the blackboard; he declared that the people before him were neglecting a mine of wealth close beside them; he told them that they ought to begin salmon-canning at once; that it was the coming great industry of the region; and that if they did not move quickly in the matter others would come in and seize the prize. He became eloquent, and the lecture ended in a grand, wordy panorama showing a salmon-colored future for the country.

One or two men in the audience, though discounting Train's prophecies, were impressed with his ideas, and resolved to carry them out in a practical way. They organized a company, and the salmon-canning industry was begun.

Profits of the Pool-Room.

[Chicago Herald.]

"I have no ropping to do now," said a pool-seller wife to the other day to a lady acquaintance, "and I am just out about it." "Why?" was the query. "Why, my husband brings more trash home than you can think of. There is not a night that he doesn't bring in a half-dozen of nice things that he gets in the pool-room. You've no idea. He has everything—from diamond shirt-studs to silk handkerchiefs. The other night he came home with two silk umbrellas, four handkerchiefs, a new, small diamond collar-button, a pair of cuff-buttons, a new full overcoat and a Waterbury watch. Where does he get all these things? Why, in the pool-room. Nice men, he tells me, come in there, bet on horses and yachts, have ball and rigger, and such things, and get completely 'busted' as he calls it; then they put up their trinkets for money to buy pool tickets with, and half the time they never redeem them, so he brings them home. Real nice business, isn't it?"

Sonorous and Fervent.

[New York Times.]

When Vestryman Green bowed his head to read the responses of the litany the other Sunday, he was very drowsy indeed, and he had repeated "Lord have mercy upon us miserable sinners" but three times when he fell fast asleep. His wife nudged him with her parasol without success.

When the minister reached, "And now, seventeenth, my beloved brethren," Vestryman Green woke up, and being unconscious of the lapse of time responded in a sonorous and fervent voice:

"Lord have mercy upon us miserable sinners."

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stekler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quins Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial affections."

Be Warned

In time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albumuria, or is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLean, cor. Bridge and Third sts., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

Is a remedy recently made from roots gathered from the forests of Georgia. The method by which it is made was obtained by a half-breed from the Creek Indians who inhabited a certain portion of Georgia, which was communicated to one of the early settlers, and then the formula has been handed down to the present day. The above cure represents the method of manufacture twenty years ago, by Mr. C. T. Swift, one of the present proprietors. The demand has been gradually increasing until a $100,000 laboratory is now necessary to supply the trade. A foreign demand has been created and enlarged facilities will be necessary to meet it.
